Are solar modules still in a state of negotiation?

In recent times, the price of solar cells on the cost side has been adjusted, enhancing the cost support for modules. However, the demand-side installations continue to decline, and overseas stockpiling has also largely come to an end. It is expected that module prices will remain in a state of negotiation in the near term.

Will solar PV demand soften by the end of October?

However, with demand expected to further soften, cell producers may face output cuts or price reductions by the end of October. Solar PV module demand remains weak, primarily driven by a limited number of domestic utility-scale projects, while distributed solar PV and overseas demand are both sluggish.

Why is solar PV demand sluggish?

Solar PV module demand remains weak, primarily driven by a limited number of domestic utility-scale projects, while distributed solar PV and overseas demand are both sluggish. Among domestic utility-scale PV projects, the 720 W module format is enjoying relatively strong demand, expected to continue into mid-November.
